Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 5 and 10-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Topper (3,119,617) in view of Schindler et al. (5,636,835). Regarding claim 5, Topper discloses an inflatable ball comprising a rubber bladder (11) adapted for retaining pressurized air, a pump assembly comprising a plunger (31) and a cylinder (25). The plunger moved in a forward and reverse stroke (note Figures 1 and 2). Regarding the limitation for the pump assembly to transfer air to the bladder by moving the plunger in either the forward stroke or the reverse stroke, this limitation is met by the disc and grommet (13, 26) where air is forced therebetween during the reverse stroke. Note column 2, lines 38-55. The claim uses the alternative language "either" so if the bladder is inflated during either the forward or reverse stroke the limitation is met. However, Topper lacks the teaching for an additional outer layer as recited.

Schindler et al. reveals that it is well known in the art of inflatable balls to provide additional layers to the ball in order to increase durability. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the ball of Topper with an additional layer on the bladder (11) in order to provide a more durable game ball.

Regarding claims 10 and 11, the ball of Topper is obviously capable of being used in the game of basketball.

Art Unit: 3711

Regarding claim 12, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the ball of Topper in the shape of a football in order to permit the user to throw the ball as a football.

Regarding claim 13, Topper includes a counterweight (36).

Regarding claim 14, Topper includes a second inflation valve (15, 22).

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-30 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-18 of copending Application No. 10/742,256. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of 10/742,256 are directed to the same structure where the movement of the piston in both the extended position to the inserted position and the inserted position to the extended position both introduce air into the ball body.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Art Unit: 3711

Regarding claim 12, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the ball of Topper in the shape of a football in order to permit the user to throw the ball as a football.

Regarding claim 13, Topper includes a counterweight (36).

Regarding claim 14, Topper includes a second inflation valve (15, 22).
